BROWN CHEMICAL CO. BALTIMORS, 1889. IN MRS. LAMONT'S HONOR

Mrs. A. A. Wilson Gave a Handsome Luncheon of Ten Covers-

The Cleveland Children Were Driven Around Town in the President's Landau-Other Society News.

Mrs. A. A. Wilson gave a luncheon of ten covers today, in honor of Mrs. Lamont. Huge pink chrysanthemums were the only decorations used. The small, square name cards were edged with silver, with a alver W at the top of each. The guests were Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Nelson A. Miles, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Sternberg, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Lieber, Mrs. Gil-more, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Brown, The three Cieveland babies, with their governess and nurse, occupied the Prestdential landau this morning, and were much observed as they were driven around the city, enjoying the bright, mild sun-

Two of the most remarked figures on Connecticut avenue yesterday were Mrs. Cameron and Mrss Edub James, who were Cameron and Mass Edith James, who were driving together in a victoria. Mrs. Cameron's large Gainesborough hat, with nooding plathes and the bg sable collar of her carriage wrap, were especially becoming. Few women, indeed, so well understands the art of dressing, and yet Mrs. Cameron's toilets are never studied in effect. Miss James, who is one of Washington's most beautiful women, has been in mourning for the last two years, but will go out again this winter.

The Original Unity Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Abbe W. Gillet at the Litchfield on Wednesday evening last. President D. C. Haywood presided at the meeting, which was held to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the ciub. Most of the evening was devoted to personal reminiscences, given by some of the oldest members of the ciub.

At the business meeting Mrs. M. D. Lincoln was unanimously elected vice president by individual ballot. Mr. W. M. Barrow was elected secretary in the same manner. Mr. James B. Philips, for nine years president and one of the oldest members of the Unity Club, delivered a splendid cissay on the history of the club, in which he recognized many of the famous did essay on the history of the club, in which he recounted many of the famous men who had read essays or addressed the club in its interesting and successful career of twenty-one years.

After this followed a series of short takes by Mrs. M. D. Lincoln, vice president; Gen. William Birney, Dr. W. A. Croffut, Judge McCalmont, Mr. J. K. Miller, Mr. R. A. Phillips, treasurer; Mr. Charles Mallard and Dr. Thomas Robinson. The nuclence was then delightfully enter-tained by several beautiful soles by Miss Mary McKee, a spiendid rendition of a difficult recitation by Miss Abbe John-son, late with Mr. Daniel Fromman, and a very amusing recitation by Mr. Charles

Among the many present were Mr. M. D. Pick, Mr. M. L. Skining, Mr. F. H. Calvert, Miss Estelle Grabam, Mrs. J. C. Hodges, Mr. J. C. Hodges, Pr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Gen. William Birney, Mr. James B. Phillips, Miss J. W. Johnson, Mrs. M. D. Littoin, Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Hester, Mr. Charles Millard, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ferguson, Mr. C. W. Dix, Mr. J. S. Primrose, Mrs. Mary Denison, Mr. N. S. Eaton, Miss Mr. J. Robinson, Miss Abbe Johnson, Dr. M. D. Peck, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Croifnt, Miss Josie Nichols, Mr. J. K. Miller, Mrs. W. K. And this is football? Well, yes, it is the first letters of the alphabet of football. To the writer this limited knowledge was worth something when witnessing a game, and it is hoped the reader may say the same on a similar occasion.

When you really decide to go into training for the game it will be necessary to appeal to a professional or an amateur player-Capt. Trenchard, for instance-for NOT LONG A WIDOW.

onian and his dismay at the display of such dense ignorance, probably followed by his total collapse.

THE INS AND OUTS. THE INS AND OUTS.

To begin with a scrimmage then—or possibly to be more logical—the size of the field in which football is esually played; 330 feet long by 160 feet wide, such is the regulation size, with a goal place in the middle of each goal line, composed of two apright posts, exceeding 20 feet in height and placed 18 feet 6 inches apart, with the cross-bar 10 feet from the ground.

The first seven of these men—called as a body, rushers—stand in a line with center in the middle. Directly back of center of this line, stands the man designated as quarterback; the two halfbacks stand be-hind the quarterback, with the fullback standing farthest back of all.

This sounds hopelessly complicated, I fear, and well adapted to bring on several separate and distinct headaches; possibly with seven teacous representing the rashers and four souvenir teaspoons for the other men, matters may be simplified; this method of the teachers and the recommendent from as llustration can be recommended from ex To proceed still deeper into the depths. The quarterback serves the ball; the half-backs do nost of the running with the ball, and the fullback does nearly all the kicking, and the other seven men? They join in the general scrimmage and oftentimes find their way home in an ambulance.

The object of the game is to carry the ball over the attacking goal line or kick it over, and between the goal posts to score a "touchdown" and a "goal." A touchdown is when the ball is carried, kicked or pussed across the goal and there heid.

A goal is obtained by kicking the ball from the opponents goal, called "a goal from the field," or by kicking it from a place held on the ground by one of his own side over the cross-har, called "a goal from touchdown."

A drop kick is letting the ball fall and kicking it the very instant it rises.

A punt is letting the ball fall and kicking it before it touches the ground.

A scrimmage takes place when the center
